The requirements listed in this document are based on Alaska Public Health Advisory and best practices from the CDC. This COVID-19 Mitigation Plan addresses the practices and protocols to protect employees and the public alike.

Alaska State Health Advisory No. 1- Keeping Alaskans Safe

“COVID-19 poses risk to all Alaskans. Containing the virus that causes COVID-19 cannot be done through community measures alone; Alaskans must take individual responsibility to protect themselves, their love ones, and their community. The primary ways to do this are:

- Wearing a cloth face covering/mask when in public settings and when you are around people outside your household.
- Practicing social distancing by avoiding close contact and minimizing time spent indoors with persons outside your household.
- Monitoring your health and staying at home when sick.
- Practicing good hygiene by frequently washing your hands and disinfecting high-touch surfaces in your home and workplace.”

CDC Guidance for fully vaccinated people, updated May 13, 2021

“Currently authorized vaccines in the United States are highly effective at protecting vaccinated people against symptomatic and severe COVID-19. Additionally, a growing body of evidence suggests that fully vaccinated people are less likely to have asymptomatic infection or transmit SARS-CoV-2 to others.

- Fully vaccinated people no longer need to wear a mask or physically distance in any setting, except where required by federal, state, local, tribal, or territorial laws, rules, and regulations, including local business and workplace guidance.
- Fully vaccinated people can refrain from testing following a known exposure unless they are residents or employees of a correctional or detention facility or a homeless shelter.”

The CDC guidelines for protecting the Public Health during this pandemic remain wearing masks, social distancing, good hand hygiene, and getting vaccinated.
