Bude Van Dyke is an educator, an Episcopal priest with strong connection to the soul space of his Cherokee ancestors, a recovering alcoholic with 30 years of sobriety, a singer/songwriter and loves to work and create with his hands. His fee is $100 per session but will work on a sliding scale with those who need and do the work.

A singer/songwriter from Sewanee, Tennessee, Bude is of Cherokee descent on his mother's side. His band, TSALAGI SOUL C̣WY DḶOW, produces Native Americana Music. Bude served as Fire Keeper for the 2010 Oklahoma IV Consultations, a gathering of over 100 Elders from 22 Native American reservations across the country.

Bude Van Dyke, DMin, is an ordained Episcopal Priest and Spiritual Director of the Extended Care Program for Bradford Health Services, a provider of addiction treatment throughout the Southeastern United States.
